

foreword

Anything and everything that workers have gained was won by organisation, campaigning and struggle – not gifted to us by enlightened bosses or progressive governments.

Today we face the greatest challenge to the interests of the working class for a generation. In a few months the Coalition Government has shelved whatever industrial strategy we had. It has announced the abolition of the Regional Development Agencies and Government Offices for the Regions, it has destabilised the NHS, announcing a real terms cut in its budget and preparing the ground for rampant privatisation. It has slashed spending in higher and further education and approved a 275 per cent increase in tuition fees, it has announced a cut in budget per head of spending in 80 per cent of secondary schools and 60 per cent of primary schools, it has attacked universal benefits and it has stigmatised and further impoverished the poor by imposing wage freezes in the public sector and by targeting them for £18 billion of spending cuts, including the devastating housing benefit cuts.

And in the workplace the Government has threatened to sweep away the health and safety systems that are already inadequate and gleefully announced 1.6 million public and private sector job losses derived from the cuts announced in the Comprehensive Spending Review. The challenges we face are massive – but look at our assets.

More than two million trade union members live and work in London, the South East and the East of England. Each and every one of them has made a personal decision to join a collective to defend and extend their and other workers' rights at work. We have 60,000 reps in our workplaces, who carry their expertise and values into the communities in which they live.

The Government's austerity programme is not fair, it is not necessary – in fact it is plain stupid and very nasty. No economy like ours in all history has ever cut its way out of a recession. Alongside community groups and service users we must create dynamic coalitions and smart campaigns to defend jobs and services.

We have an alternative strategy that that will create jobs and increase social justice and we must campaign to gain more traction for it and confidence in it.

Effective communication is a critical feature of effective campaigning. SERTUC has produced this third Regional Directory as a tool to increase contact between unions, as well as to facilitate contact between unions, trades councils, community groups and service users.

The SERTUC regional office is always willing to offer advice as to whom a union should contact to further joint working. This Directory is not intended to substitute or usurp that role. Not always, but often, SERTUC staff will have additional knowledge about ongoing campaigns, about unions' priorities, about which officer has a particular expertise or interest or which trades council has had a related campaign. So this Directory should increase enquiries to the SERTUC office not reduce them.

The SERTUC Regional Council is a campaigning body. The Executive Committee and the Regional Secretary are determined to do what we can to increase the capacity of unions to campaign effectively and successfully and I trust that this Directory will be a valuable tool.

These are terrible times but the trade union movement is hardened precisely for this challenge. A better world is possible and more than ever, trade unionism is the hope of the world.

The Southern and Eastern Regional Council of the Trades Union Congress represents TUC affiliated trade unions in London, the South East and the East of England. SERTUC directly represents the interest of those unions' two million plus members, who live and work in this region, and works on behalf of all working people and their families.

Unions and county associations of trades councils nominate delegates to the Regional Council, which meets quarterly to discuss both how to achieve policy determined at the national Trade Union Congress, and to make specific policies on regional issues.

The SERTUC AGM elects an Executive Committee that meets monthly, and officers – a President, two Vice-Presidents, and a Treasurer.

SERTUC has a number of equality and industrial sub-groups, to which unions and county associations of trades councils send delegates. These advise the Regional Council.

The SERTUC office administers the Regional Council, delivers services to the affiliates, represents the TUC in relations with public bodies, and campaigns for Congress policy. There are four members of staff: Megan Dobney Regional Secretary; Laurie Heselden Campaigns and Policy Officer; Ellenor Hutson Project Worker on the Union Modernisation Fund project; and Darren Lewis Administrative Secretary. Email addresses are first name initial followed by surname@tuc.org.uk.

This is the third SERTUC regional directory – many thanks to those unions that responded for their help in establishing contact points for our, and your, work.

The nature of our movement means that almost as soon as the information is committed to paper it is out of date. Therefore we shall be posting a pdf version on our website (www.tuc.org.uk/sertuc) which we will keep updated – so keep us informed.

I hope the information is helpful to affiliates and partner organisations and I particularly want to thank Thompsons Solicitors for their important support for the project.

Unionlearn, established in May 2006 under the auspices of the TUC, integrated SERTUC Learning Services and TUC Education boosting support for union reps and learners in general.

The Southern and Eastern Regional Council helps shape the region's learning and skills policy and the unionlearn Regional Manager works with the Regional Secretary to actively engage unions in this work.

Regional Manager

Barry Francis is responsible for the strategic and operational development of activities around workforce development, reps and officer training, and lifelong learning. He is based in Congress House.
