Established over 30 years ago with a vision to create a bank that would serve the needs of its customers and enrich society as a whole, our purpose is to help organisations to prosper, and contribute to economic, community and environmental change. We focus on delivering positive social impact, not simply maximising profit. This is known as our 'double bottom line' strategy. Put simply, we're here to help create a better society.

Together with our trade union affiliates, War on Want campaigns against harmful free trade deals and for an end to exploitation of workers in supply chains for the High Street. We support migrant workers employed on precarious contracts facing racism and exploitation and stand in solidarity with workers everywhere facing intimidation for trade union organising. In partnership with trade unions, grassroots social movements and workers' associations around the world, we believe the best way to tackle poverty is to support those organisations that are best placed to find their own solutions for social change.

White Ribbon UK is the national campaign to end male violence against women. We work with men and boys to challenge those male cultures that lead to harassment, abuse and violence. Our volunteer ambassadors engage with other men and boys to call out such behaviour among their peers and promote a culture of equality and respect. We call on all men to take a stand against sexism and gender-based violence in all forms.
