Redbridge Trades Union Council c/o 69 Lorne Road London E7 0LL

Trades Councils have a long history. Their job in each locality has been to “bring together union branches at a local level to campaign around issues affecting working people in their workplaces and local communities”.

Besides discussing purely union matters, our stated aims include: “Improve generally the economic and social conditions of working people”, and “help promote suitable cultural, educational, social and sports facilities for all working people”.

We also help to build up the trade union movement in our locality, to encourage people to assert their rights and dignity at work and to provide support and assistance to those in struggle to defend their rights either at work or in the community.

If you need information or contact details of appropriate trade unions or if you have a community campaign which is seeking support, you will find a ready welcome at Redbridge Trades Union Council.

Millions of peoples’ lives are being adversely affected just now by government cuts and “austerity”. RTUC will support and assist the resistance to these socially destructive policies and the defence of past advances in social and welfare provision.
