WELCOME 5
TUC STRUCTURE 8

WELCOME TO THE 2014 EDITION OF THE TUC DIRECTORY

Every organisation needs a single, reliable information resource for those who follow its fortunes, and for the TUC that has been the Directory, our annual yearbook about TUC work and that of our member unions. I hope you will find it useful in 2014.

We have made this interactive version to allow busy people on the move to see the Directory on their tablet or smartphone. Click or tap on the links to navigate your way around, visit websites or send emails. The Directory is also available as a printed paperback from TUC Publications. See page 24 for details.

The affiliates section now contains a helpful list of unions by work sector, as well as some data from the latest Labour Force Survey of trade union density and reach, presented as infographics.

It is exactly a year since I started my term as the new general secretary.

The economy shows only faint signs of recovery, with the chancellor predicting further squeezes in the months ahead. Workers across public and private sectors continue to face huge pressure on their living standards as wages fail to keep up with the cost of living.

The TUC and unions must continue to be effective advocates of the interests of working people. In recent months we have set the public policy agenda on fair taxes, decent jobs and higher pay. Yet, we still have much to do. The TUC and Britain's unions stand ready for a busy 2014.

Frances O'Grady
General secretary

The TUC is the voice of Britain at work. Our overall objectives are to raise the quality of working life and promote equality for all. Our mission is to be a high profile organisation that campaigns successfully for trade union aims and values; assists trade unions to increase membership and effectiveness; cuts out wasteful rivalry; and promotes trade union solidarity.

Who we are

The TUC represents almost six million workers in 54 unions. Globally we are part of a union family with 175 million members in more than 150 countries.

Our unions range in size from Unite with 1.3 million members to small specialist unions with only a few hundred. Most unions are also affiliated to the Global Union Federation for their sector.

Just as individual workers benefit by joining together in a union, so unions gain strength by acting together through the TUC. The TUC brings unions together to draw up common policies on issues that matter to people at work.

What we do

- make representations to government and represent British workers on European Union and international bodies
- campaign on workplace issues
- represent working people on public bodies
- carry out research on economic and employment-related issues
- work with others to build international solidarity and to connect the trade union movement in Britain to unions across the globe

- provide, or help unions provide, an extensive programme of work-based learning services, helping raise national levels of learning and skills
- organise a wide range of training for around 52,000 union reps each year
- help unions develop new services for their members
- help unions avoid clashes with each other
- have offices in central London, in Cardiff, in Brussels and at regional centres across England.

Our campaign priorities

The TUC Campaign Plan, A Future That Works, sets out the strategic goals for which we are campaigning:

Jobs, growth and a new economy - fighting back against austerity

- exposing the failure of austerity as an economic strategy
- pressing for: an alternative economic model to bring good, sustainable jobs for all; a modern industrial strategy including investment in skills; fair taxes; a big programme to build affordable homes; and banking reform.

Fair pay and the living wage - defending living standards

- building a nationwide campaign to spread the living wage in private and public workplaces
- tackling tax dodging and excessive bonuses by the super-rich and big firms
- supporting co-ordinated union campaigns to win better pay and pensions
- winning support for new collective approaches to raising pay.

Good services and decent welfare - standing up for society

- opposing outsourcing, privatisation and the fragmentation of the NHS
- exposing the effects of austerity on services, benefits and working people
- making the case for a welfare system that provides social protection for all.

Respect and a voice at work - defending and extending workers' rights

- defending 'social Europe' and workers' and union rights
- pressing for a greater role for employees in corporate governance
- exposing and eliminating discrimination in the workplace.

Strong unions - organising at work and in the community

- bringing unions together to strengthen our bargaining and campaigning power
- helping to build union strength in the private sector
- training activists, especially the next generation of young members, in campaigning and organising.

Why we need to act

Never has a strong voice for British unions been more necessary. Never have the TUC's campaigns been so urgent.

Spending cuts are destroying vital services. Ordinary families are seeing vital benefits held back or frozen, while tax rates for the biggest earners are cut. Living standards are falling as wages stagnate but prices of family essentials keep raising. Austerity is rolling back gains in equality.

The TUC and Britain's unions are the country's strongest social movement, organising in workplaces and communities. We have been in the forefront of fighting austerity, with the two biggest demonstrations since the election. We co-ordinated industrial action to defend public sector pensions that secured real concessions. Grassroots mobilisation and smart political campaigning has defeated reactionary proposals for regional pay and many of the Beecroft attacks on workers' rights.

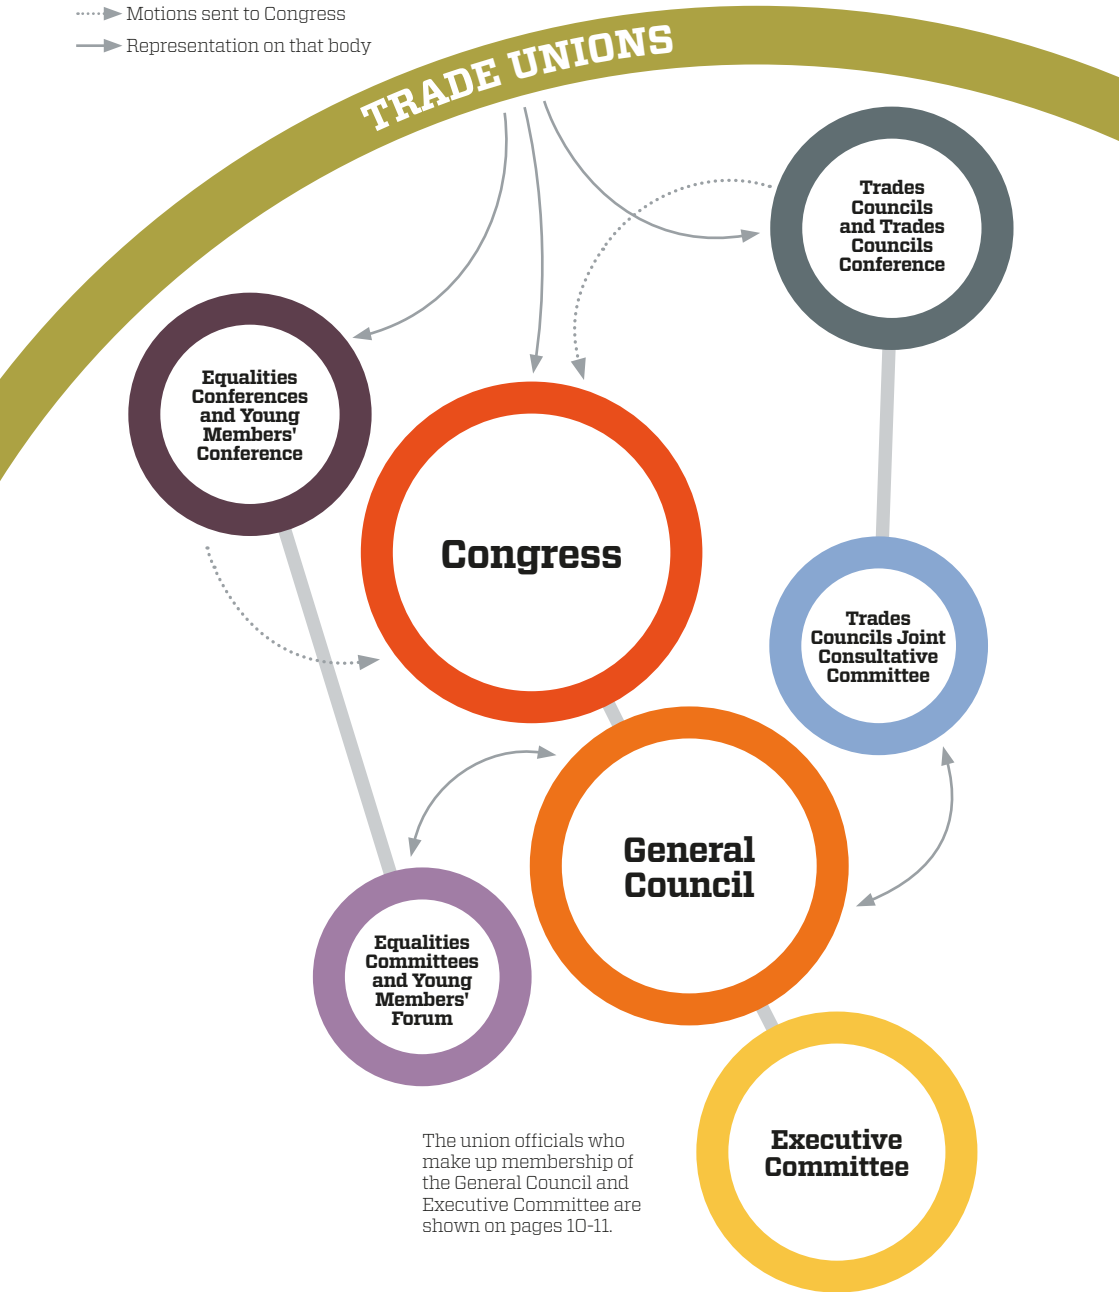

But while we can be proud of our work, the government's central strategy has not changed. As we enter the final year before the next general election this remains our biggest - and most political - challenge. The TUC is determined to harness the huge potential of a united movement - and all those who support us - to win support for a future that works.

How the TUC makes policy

.....> Motions sent to Congress

—> Representation on that body

TUC STRUCTURE

Unions pay an affiliation fee to the TUC and in return receive a range of services and the opportunity to work together to draw up common policies.

Policy-making

TUC policy is set by the annual Congress, which meets each year in early September. All affiliated unions are entitled to be represented – the number of delegates depends on the size of the union. Congress considers motions that have been submitted by unions and by various conferences. It also receives a report from the General Council and any special statements which have been agreed for presentation to Congress.

The 2014 Congress will be held in Liverpool from Sunday 7 to Wednesday 10 September.

Policy enactment

The 60 members of the General Council meet every two months at Congress House to oversee the TUC's work programme and sanction new policy initiatives. The larger and medium size unions are automatically represented on the General Council, and smaller unions ballot for a number of reserved spaces. There are also reserved spaces for women and black workers, and a reserved space for one representative each of young workers, disabled workers and lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender workers.

Each year at its meeting at the end of Congress, the General Council appoints, from its own members, the Executive Committee for the year. The Executive meets monthly to implement and develop TUC policy as well as to manage the TUC's financial affairs and deal with urgent business.

The end of Congress meeting of the General Council also elects the President for that Congress year. The 2013-14 President is Mohammad Taj of Unite; he chairs General Council and Executive meetings and is consulted by the General Secretary on all major issues.

There are also committees that link to other parts of the trade union movement. The Women's Committee includes members elected at the annual TUC Women's Conference as well as General Council members. The Race Relations Committee, the Disabled Workers' Committee and the Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual and Transgender Committee have similar links to their own conferences. The Young Workers' Forum also reports to the General Council, as does the body for Trades Union Councils (local trade union bodies).

The TUC consults union officers in a variety of ways, both formal and informal.

All these structures are supported by TUC staff. See pages 14-22.

As well as sending delegates to Congress, unions also send representatives to a number of other TUC bodies – the equalities conferences and Young Workers' Forum at national level and Trades Union Councils at local level. The equality conferences, Trades Union Councils' Conference and Young Workers' Conference have the right to submit one motion each to the annual Congress. Unions also participate in the TUC through the regional machinery.

The General Council also appoints representatives to sit on the committees elected by the other conferences. These committees in turn report to the General Council.

PRACTICAL INTERNATIONAL SOLIDARITY

TUC Aid is appealing for funds to help trade unionists in three of the most challenging environments. This is your chance to put solidarity into action. Help fellow trade unionists create democracy and fight poverty. MAKE A DIFFERENCE.

Help Burma's workers build a union movement

For the first time in generations workers in Burma are now free to form trade unions. But they are starting from scratch in a country slowly emerging from dictatorship and extreme poverty. They are asking for our help.

Supporting farmers in Gaza

TUC Aid is supporting the development of a nursery in the Gaza strip in collaboration with the MAAN Development Center and Union Aid Abroad (Australia) to help some of the poorest families secure enough food and improve their household incomes.

Helping people with disabilities into employment

In Tanzania and Uganda, people with disabilities are finding jobs under a project implemented by Disability Aid Abroad (DAA) in Northern Ireland with financial support from TUC Aid. A similar initiative is envisaged for Rwanda in 2014.

Visit our website to donate directly, set up a standing order, or arrange for your employer to make payments out of your wages through Give As You Earn. Or send a cheque made out to 'TUC Aid (Multi-Country Appeal)' to Congress House, Great Russell Street, London WC1B 3LS.

In 2014, two new campaign support posts will be created in this department.

Policy staff in the regions

In the UK, the TUC has representation in six English regions, and Wales.
These offices are all part of the organisation and services department.

The Wales TUC Annual Conference determines policy on all areas devolved to the Welsh Government and other matters specific to Wales. The Wales TUC General Council is responsible for the delivery of devolved policy matters.
It also oversees the implementation in Wales of UK-wide or international matters, as determined by the TUC's annual Congress and General Council.

In Scotland the STUC is a separate organisation, but the TUC has an education office in Glasgow. The TUC has links in Northern Ireland with ICTU.

The TUC also has an office in Brussels.

Unions are also active in communities, and their views are co-ordinated by TUC Trades Union Councils. A list of these can be found on the TUC website.

Unionlearn, the TUC's learning and skills organisation, also has staff in the regions (see pages 81 and 86).

The bank for trade unions, owned by trade unions

Unity's continued success is due to the enlightened leadership and commitment of its trades union shareholders and customers. This invaluable relationship helps us support social organisations in a way that is unique, putting job creation and support for the social economy at the heart of our strategy.

Unity can provide the following benefits to your Union:

- ✓ Dedicated Relationship Manager, backed by an award-winning, Birmingham based customer service team
- ✓ Dual/Triple Authority Internet Banking
- ✓ Online statements
- ✓ Bacs facility for collecting subscriptions and any other regular payments.
- ✓ ALTO MasterCard® prepaid card for your office expenses
- ✓ Corporate Visa card

Information

TUC Information Service

The Information Service provides enquiry and research services for TUC staff as well as assistance with email/telephone/written enquiries from the public. It also looks after the TUCi – the TUC's intranet – and the union professionals website which provides a range of resources as well as discussion forums for all TU employees (see page 25). The Information Service provides advice and guidance on managing the TUC's own files as well as looking after more recent materials until they are scheduled to be transferred to the Modern Records Centre (MRC).

Publishing

Design and production

The TUC publishes a wide range of advice, guidance, educational and policy materials in print and for electronic media, as well as short campaign reports and briefings on topical items such as economic trends, union services and recruitment.

The production team in the communications department also create or source branding and graphic design for TUC campaigns and initiatives, such as Britain Needs A Pay Rise and Fair Pay Fortnight.

Sometimes the TUC works with external publishers to reach a wider audience, such as Kogan Page on Your Rights at Work. The fourth edition is now in print and available from bookshops and the TUC.

Websites

www.tuc.org.uk

The TUC's website is at the heart of our communications. Save yourself valuable research time by subscribing to our free email alerts, and whenever a relevant item is added to the site, it can be automatically forwarded to your email. We also offer free regular email newsletters, rounding up essential news and events in the fields of health and safety, organising, work/life balance, or union issues in general. Register for email alerts and newsletters at: www.tuc.org.uk/email

www.unionlearn.org.uk

The TUC's organisation for workplace learning has a major website of its own. Check out the resources for union learning reps and also the education course directory, which sorts through hundreds of training opportunities for union reps and officers to find the right ones for you.

www.worksmart.org.uk

The TUC's advice site for non-union members also includes a comprehensive company information search tool. Staff of larger companies can find out detailed financial data, including top directors' pay rises, as well as unpicking the layers of subsidiary and holding companies and major shareholders, to see who you're really working for. Where possible, the site advises on which unions would be the most appropriate to join for that company.

www.unionreps.org.uk

Being a rep can be a lonely job, with 40 per cent of unionised workplaces having just one person to cover the role. This online community brings together thousands of reps from nearly all of the TUC's unions, who use the discussion boards to swap ideas and get help and support on their daily work as a rep.

www.touchstoneblog.org.uk

The TUC's public policy blog. Written by staff, policy experts and guest contributors, this blog is aimed at promoting a union voice in policy debates and topical stories around economic and social issues.

www.strongerunions.org

The TUC organising team's shared blog, featuring news, comment and insight into the work of unions in the UK and around the world.

www.unionprofessionals.org.uk

This site allows union professional staff to network online and exchange opinions, experiences and resources.

www.goingtowork.org.uk

TUC Aid

TUC Aid, the development arm of the British trade union movement, raises funds for:

- ▶ long-term development
- ▶ trade union capacity-building through training and education activities
- ▶ emergency relief for victims of natural disasters and armed conflict in developing countries.

TUC Aid is supporting trade unionists in their efforts to end poverty, ill-health and oppression.

We are currently focusing on trade union capacity-building in Burma, East Africa, Guatemala, Haiti and Vietnam, while helping disabled workers into jobs in East Africa.

Trustees are Sheila Bearcroft, Gail Cartmail (chair), Sue Ferns, Sally Hunt, Frances O'Grady, Chris Tansley, Owen Tudor and Fiona Wilson.

Organising Academy

The TUC Organising Academy was established in 1998 and is aimed at helping unions who are organising for growth. As the challenges faced by the movement intensify, the Organising Academy continues to evolve and our work in 2014 offers a range of innovative programmes specifically designed to help union increase membership, participation and their effectiveness in today's even more challenging environment.

Learning programme

The main work of the Organising Academy is the delivery of our core programme of learning which is run in partnership with Ruskin College. We offer union staff a range of courses including:

- Diploma in Organising, which explores the key skills and knowledge needed to organise successfully
- Advanced Certificate in Organising, which explores in more detail organising strategies in relation to current challenges
- Supporting Organising, which is specifically for union staff in administrative and support roles to understand organising and the implications for the way unions operate
- Communication and Campaigns, which gives union staff an insight into how to frame campaigns for the maximum impact.

We also offer courses on working in coalition and negotiations and research. For more information, please contact organisingacademy@tuc.org.uk for a brochure.

Bespoke programme

We can provide the courses above in bespoke format for affiliates, and we can also create new bespoke courses that enable union staff to train to organise.

Organising Academy trainee organiser programme

The Academy continues to work with unions to sponsor trainee academy organisers. During the 12-month placement with sponsoring unions, trainee organisers take the Diploma in Organising and apply the skills that they learn in real organising campaigns with their sponsoring union.

Consultancy and briefings

In addition to training the Organising Academy provides other support via consultancy services and briefings to assist unions to develop and review organising strategies, practice and campaigns. These can include:

- team building of union leaders and staff
- strategic planning sessions
- briefings for elected officials and staff
- support for campaigns
- support for union change programmes.

Other development programmes

Leading Change

Leading Change is a training and development programme for union leaders and senior officers that runs annually. Now in its ninth year, there have been over 165 graduates of the Leading Change programme and it has established a reputation as perhaps the most innovative development and training programme available to union officers in the UK. Leading Change runs between July and March with formal recruitment starting at the beginning of each calendar year. There is a charge for attendance on this programme.

Lay leadership development programme

This programme is specifically aimed at members of union national executives and other similar bodies. The programme runs over three two-day modules. We are also able to offer this programme in bespoke form to unions.

Centres for the Unemployed

A national network of nearly 40 TUC Centres for the Unemployed, with links to their local trades union councils, provide support on welfare rights, education/skills training, representation and campaigning for the unemployed, low paid and vulnerable workers in their localities.

An online directory of TUC Centres for the Unemployed can be found at www.tuc.org.uk and hard copies are available from Tom Mellish on 020 7467 1380 or tmellish@tuc.org.uk

Trades Union Councils

Trades Union Councils bring together unions to campaign around issues affecting working people in their workplaces and local communities. Trades Union Councils aim to:

- raise public awareness of rights at work and the union role in enforcing those rights
- promote organising and recruitment drives to build union membership
- support union and community campaigns for dignity and respect in the workplace and beyond.

Trades Union Councils are also a key element in developing local union-based campaigns, working with local community groups, to protect welfare rights, defend local services and promote an alternative approach to the government's economic policies.

More information about Trades Union Councils is available at: www.unionsinthecommunity.org.uk
For a copy of the Directory of Trades Union Councils and County Associations contact Tom Mellish on 020 7467 1380 or tmellish@tuc.org.uk

The TUC and young people

Much of the focus of the TUC's work is on speaking up for and engaging with young people in the workplace and society in general. The TUC, through its Young Workers' Forum and the annual Young Workers' Conference, works with unions to increase awareness and membership of unions amongst young workers.

The TUC produces educational resources for schools and colleges and recently launched web resources for teachers and students. These provide lesson plans and audiovisual teaching resources that introduce young people to the history of the movement and the work of trade unions in the modern workplace in the UK as well as internationally. The materials can be found at www.unionsintoschools.org.uk

The TUC has a protocol with the National Union of Students that helps the TUC work together with student unions, bringing information and guidance to the increasing number of students who are also workers.

The TUC also produces employment rights information aimed at young people, including those entering work as apprentices or interns. In addition, TUC Education provides training and support for reps in supporting, mentoring and organising young people at work.

For more information on this area of the TUC's work, contact Carl Roper, TUC National Organiser and Policy Officer for Young People, at croper@tuc.org.uk or call 020 7467 1211.

Tolpuddle Martyrs' Museum

In 1934, to commemorate the centenary of the transportation of six agricultural workers transported to Australia in 1834 for forming a trade union, the TUC built six cottages with a central meeting room for retired agricultural labourers. In later years the central meeting room was converted into a museum which today holds a colourful display of illustrative banners, information stands and interactive audio visual displays telling one of the most celebrated stories of human rights. Publications, CDs and souvenirs are on sale from either the museum shop or online at www.tolpuddlemartyrs.org.uk

The museum is seven miles north east of Dorchester and is signposted from the A35 onwards. Groups or school parties are welcome, but prior arrangement is advisable by contacting the Museum manager on 01305 848 237.

Free admission, access for the disabled and toilets including disabled facilities.

TUC MEMBER UNIONS

Member unions on the following pages are listed alphabetically by initials.

All details are those given to the TUC in late autumn 2013, except for membership figures which are those filed with the TUC as at January 2013.

TUC total membership now stands at 54 unions representing just under six million people. A breakdown of the total is given on page 78.

Notable changes since January 2013

One new affiliation, the Staff Union West Bromwich Building Society – see page 69.

UNIONLEARN

TUC EDUCATION - TRAINING
UNION REPS AND OFFICERS 83

LEARNING THROUGH UNIONS
- UNION LEARNING REPS 87

Unionlearn is responsible for union learning and skills development in England. This includes administering the Union Learning Fund, as well as TUC Education, which covers the whole United Kingdom. It is partly supported through a Department for Business, Innovation and Skills (BIS) grant. The main functions of unionlearn are to:

- provide an enhanced trade union education service for the training of union reps and professionals
- develop the key role of union learning representatives (ULRs) in raising demand for learning, especially among workers with low skill levels and skills for life needs
- provide quality information, advice and guidance (IAG) to learners, linked to the union learning 'Climbing Frame' - an online tool for ULRs to help learner progression
- assist unions to secure quality learning provision, including extending the use of the already successful unionlearn Quality Award
- support the network of union learning centres
- provide a support network to help unions engage with and influence bodies such as sector skills councils
- establish a research and strategy function to identify, disseminate and mainstream good practice, and sponsor research where needed
- build union capacity to sustain and embed work on learning and skills so that it becomes a core activity for all trade unions, in particular by integrating ULRs into workplace union organisation
- manage and administer the Union Learning Fund on behalf of BIS
- provide a policy function to influence the government's learning and skills strategies and wider education policy and provide policy briefings and support to trade unions in these areas
- lead on the TUC's work on apprentices and promote good quality Apprenticeships
- lead on education and skills policy for the TUC
- support and promote continuing professional development and work with individual unions to promote CPD in the workplace.

Unionlearn does not seek to replace unions' own learning programmes, but adds value to them. It has its own identity and is established under the auspices of the TUC with headquarters in Congress House, further teams in each TUC regional office, and project workers in the field.

TUC EDUCATION - TRAINING UNION REPS AND OFFICERS

TUC Education is the TUC's training arm for workplace reps and union professionals. It has an unrivalled reach into Britain's workplaces to provide education and training for workplace representatives. In 2012 we trained 52,198 union workplace representatives and 611 union professionals through the network of more than 60 partnerships with further education colleges across the UK. Almost all affiliated unions participate in the programme and many commission tailored programmes within TUC Education units.

A secure funding mechanism which gives government backing to key areas of work underscores the reputation of trade union education as an important part of the adult curriculum in further education.

Qualifications

Securing resources to maintain trade union education's position as a high quality and valued part of public provision remains a priority, as does work to build the value and currency of trade union credits. Funding is being directed towards learning that leads to an existing qualification or a qualification in the Qualifications and Credit Framework (QCF). The framework recognises achievement through the award of credit for units and qualifications and will provide flexible routes to gaining full qualifications and the potential to enable qualifications to be achieved in small steps.

Courses

The TUC programme of courses offers high quality, accredited union reps training through a network of colleges of further and higher education across the UK.

The courses are attended by representatives of member trade unions and include:

- stewards (workplace reps)
- health and safety reps
- union learning reps
- pension scheme trustees
- equality reps
- green reps
- other trade union reps.

The core programme consists of:

- Union Reps Stage 1 Course
- Employment Law - the Advanced Course for Union Reps
- Health and Safety Stage 1 Course
- Next Steps for Health and Safety Reps - Stage 2 Course
- Union Learning Reps - Stage 1 Course
- Union Learning Reps - Stage 2 Course.

As well as the traditional 10-day release model, courses can be delivered flexibly to groups of reps to accommodate shift patterns, workplace needs and family responsibilities.

Union Representatives Stage 1 course covers all aspects of the union rep's role including: building union membership; using and making agreements; representing members; grievance and discipline, managing change at work; union organisation; and employment law. The focus of the Stage 1 training is on the reps' workplace, and the skills and knowledge needed to meet initial training needs as a new union rep.

Employment Law – the Advanced Course for Union Reps is designed for those who have already completed the TUC Stage 1 Union Reps course or its union equivalent. It is a practical training course that approaches the law, including the 2013-14 changes, from a workplace perspective and its principal concern is how knowledge and confidence in using employment law can improve workplace bargaining.

The course covers:

Rights at work

This section explores the basis for rights at work, explains how you can find out about them, and shows how to ensure they can be accessed.

Keeping, enforcing and improving rights at work

This section explores compliance and enforcement mechanisms – in theory and in practice.

Using employment law at work – a trade union approach

This section will develop your ability to use the law in representational, organising and collective bargaining situations.

Employment law project

Reps will be able to research and report on an aspect of employment law in the context of the workplace.

The course is available to reps across the UK. For details of where the course is running in your area, contact the appropriate regional education officer.

The health and safety reps programme (Stage 1 and Next Steps for Safety Reps (Stage 2)) includes: building health and safety organisation; preventing accidents and ill health; skills for the safety rep; building a safe and healthy workplace; keeping up to date on health and safety; effecting change in the workplace; ensuring that an equal opportunities approach to health and safety at work is adopted; and planning for the future. Next Steps for Safety Reps is approved by QCA to provide the Certificate for Trade Union Health and Safety Representatives at Levels 2 or 3.

A full continuing safety rep development programme of short courses is available.

The union learning reps programme (Stage 1 and Stage 2 courses) includes: understanding union structures, and how unions organise around learning; building a broad perspective of the ULR role; finding out about developments in learning; working with members and other reps; developing skills for putting the union case on learning; developing knowledge and skills for use in working on projects and initiatives with the union and at work; and promoting learning in a way that widens access, helps develop members and strengthens the union.

The core diploma courses lead to the TUC Diploma Programme, which offers progression to degree courses. The pathways are:

- contemporary trade unionism
- employment law
- occupational health and safety
- equalities.

The Diploma in Occupational Health and Safety is the academic qualification for membership of the Institution of Occupational Health and Safety (IOSH) at Safety Technician grade (Tech IOSH), and over 1,000 safety reps have achieved this qualification in the last 10 years.

TUC Education Online

TUC Education Online now offers a genuine alternative to its classroom-based equivalent and offers a convenient and effective solution to union reps seeking to develop their skills and knowledge.

During 2012, TUC Education has continued to develop and expand its online programme, with over a thousand learners on 62 online courses. Some affiliates have commissioned their own online programmes and there is increased capacity to deliver with more tutors trained to deliver online.

Continuing demand for these courses is supported by a growth in choice for online learners with a range of new courses, including Union Learning Reps Stage 1 and Union Learning Reps Stage 2 as well as all four diploma courses.

TUC Education Online courses available during 2014 include:

- Union Reps Stage 1
- Employment Law – the Advanced Course for Union Reps
- Health and Safety Stage 1
- Next Steps for Safety Reps
- Union Learning Reps Stage 1
- Union Learning Reps Stage 2
- Diploma in Occupational Health & Safety
- Diploma in Employment Law
- Diploma in Contemporary Trade Unionism
- Diploma in Equalities
- Disability Champions@Work
- Trade Unions and the Environment
- Equality Reps
- Going Global: Trade Unions and International Development
- Introduction to Pensions
- Getting Ready for E-Learning.

TUC Education has launched short, topic-based e-learning modules for union reps and union professionals, called eNotes. These short modules are designed to keep union reps and professionals up to date with the fast moving world of work. They offer reps more flexible ways to access learning that suits their particular needs as well of those of their employers. This initiative reaches into those areas of the economy where union support is harder to access. This, alongside enhancements to TUC Education's existing online programme, gives union reps and professionals a convenient and effective way to keep up to speed. Topics already online include Apprenticeships; bargaining for skills; the Climbing Frame; equalities; European Works Councils; facility time; the sick note; Supporting Learners; paternity leave; Universal Credit and vulnerable workers. New modules on the living wage and domestic violence will be launched soon. Around 3,500 learners are enrolled at www.tuceducation.org.uk

More information is available from Craig Hawkins at chawkins@tuc.org.uk

Union Professional Development Programme

The union professional development programme has been comprehensively redesigned for 2013-14 to ensure its relevance to union professionals. Following consultation with union officers and staff throughout the UK, the new programme offers more flexible learning options than ever before to make it as accessible as possible for union professionals. This year we are offering some of our most successful courses in a blended learning format, combining the flexibility of online working with the invaluable opportunity to work with other union professional staff in a classroom environment. There are also shorter, classroom-based courses available throughout the year. Also, the tenth annual Union Women Professionals' Summer School will run in 2014.

All course information, including dates, is available on the unionlearn website at www.unionlearn.org.uk/union-professionals

Courses are run in London in association with experts in specialised subjects and TUC Education partner colleges with a proven track record of excellence over many years. TUC trained tutors are experienced trade unionists and professionally qualified. TUC Education develops and provides materials for all courses and materials are regularly reviewed and revised with input from tutors, policy experts and unions.

The TUC's union professionals website, www.unionprofessionals.org.uk is the only website exclusively devoted to the needs of people who work for unions, offering information and support.

There is a charge for union professionals courses but these are kept to a minimum. For details of these, or any further information about the union professional development programme, the Union Women Professionals' Summer School or the unionprofessionals website please contact Martin Hegarty at mhegarty@tuc.org.uk

LEARNING THROUGH UNIONS - UNION LEARNING REPS

Unionlearn has trained more than 28,500 union learning reps (ULRs), building a network of reps through the member unions.

The proportion of ULRs who are female or black and minority ethnic is higher than among reps generally, proving that union work on learning is reaching a wider range of workers than ever before.

Most unions have developed a ULR network. ULRs are succeeding in increasing the number of learning agreements with employers.

The Union Learning Fund

The Union Learning Fund (ULF) continues to support union work. Approximately 120,000 union learners were supported through ULF projects last year, and an increasing number gaining continuous professional development with the support of their union. Unions continue to join the ULF, drawing in more employer support and engagement with important partner organisations, particularly sector skills councils.

Apprenticeships

Unionlearn is working with the National Apprenticeship Service and unions to support the expansion of Apprenticeships in the workplace and the development of Apprenticeship policy and progression. The project provides reps with courses, information, workshops and guides to help them learn more about Apprenticeships so they can promote them within their union and so reps can act as mentors to young apprentices. It also enables them to negotiate terms, such as pay and health and safety, for apprentices with employers.

Unionlearn is also campaigning on issues around pay and standards for apprentices. You can see more at www.unionlearn.org.uk/valueme

Green skills

Unionlearn is responsible for developing policies on green skills and funds the training of green reps who promote environmentally sensitive working practices and the creation of green jobs in the economy. Our Greener Deals guide helps trade union reps and members to negotiate with employers to introduce green policies for the workplace, offering practical advice and making the case for trade union involvement. Unionlearn training workshops provide the skills to help union members develop energy- and resource-efficient ways of working that fit the demands of the modern workplace.

Higher skills

Unionlearn is working with unions to meet higher skills needs of members and to offer them progression opportunities. Memoranda of Understanding have been signed with the Open University, Birkbeck University of London, other higher education institutions and the National Extension College distance learning organisation. These commit unionlearn and our partners to joint work, and some offer discounts to union learners.

We regularly produce publications on higher learning and these are available, free, from the website: www.higherlearningatwork.org

Supporting learners (IAG)

Unionlearn has worked with unions to develop a network model and strategy that ensures union members can get the quality help they need to progress their learning and skills. It builds on existing good practice in unions, particularly ULRs, and works alongside the National Careers Service. To access the full range of advice services visit the website www.unionlearn.org.uk/supportinglearners

The Climbing Frame

The online Climbing Frame continues to be a valuable tool for ULRs to help support learners. It provides up-to-date information and advice about a broad range of learning opportunities, including information about ICT, community learning and personal development and career planning. ULRs can keep records and plans in an online accessible form. Reports can be produced and ULRs can make use of the discussion forum, useful links, case studies and news and can store their own notes www.climbingframe.unionlearn.org.uk

The unionlearn Quality Award

Unionlearn has a Quality Award that can be used for courses and IAG services and Apprenticeships programmes that are union-friendly and demonstrate good practice. The purpose is to help ULRs and others find their way through the often confusing range of provision and give providers something to aim for. More than 100 awards have now been presented to providers by MPs, government ministers and senior trade unionists.

Union representatives on public bodies

Unionlearn provides support to union representatives on public bodies. A continuing priority for this area of work is the sector skills councils. As a result of memoranda of understanding between individual unions, unionlearn and several SSCs, working groups have been set up to implement detailed action plans.

Closely linked to the SSCs are national skills academies (NSAs), many of which also have trade union representation on their boards.

Unionlearn is supporting the work of unions in the government-funded Women and Work Sector Pathways Initiative, helping women to access intermediate and higher level skills in areas where they are under-represented.

Unionlearn is represented on a number of external bodies, including UKCES, SFA, NIACE, SKOPE, learndirect, City and Guilds, National Apprenticeships Service, Investors in People and the BIS employer reference group.

Policy

Unionlearn is responsible within the TUC for policy development on work-based learning and skills, education policy and early years' provision. The main aims of this policy function are to influence the government's policies in these areas in line with Congress policy and to provide policy support and briefings to affiliated trade unions. Unionlearn also works closely with all the affiliated unions that represent the education and skills workforce

Research and evaluation

Unionlearn commissions top academics to research the union role in learning and skills. Their research is published in unionlearn research reports. They help to inform the development of TUC policy on learning and skills. A major research activity is the biennial ULRs survey which sets out the profile, role and views of ULRs as well as both their and their employers' view of their impact at the workplace. The results of the latest survey were published in 2012.

Communications

Getting a strong message out about unionlearn, its work and how it can help is a key task for unionlearn. Work is focused on accessing new media and social media to spread the word about unionlearn. An email alert service is also operated giving direct contacts to reps.

The website www.unionlearn.org.uk provides information on our activities, information on how you can get involved and work with unionlearn as well as information on what we have achieved and our record at delivering skills. It also provides a range of publications for order and download as well as information on research and case studies.

Learning Rep, unionlearn's magazine showcasing good practice in learning at work, is produced and distributed electronically three times a year; there are also regional magazines with greater focus on local stories and a detailed annual report. Unionlearn runs an annual conference as well as smaller events throughout the year focused on key areas of work, including an annual Apprenticeships conference.

The ILO was established in 1919 and is now the United Nations specialised agency responsible for the employment and labour field which aims to promote social justice by promoting humane conditions of work. Alone among the UN agencies the ILO is a tripartite organisation with representatives of working people and employers having an equal vote with governments in most aspects of its work. The International Labour Conference meets every June and its main work is to draw up and supervise the application of international labour standards in the form of Conventions and Recommendations. The TUC is represented by a delegate and advisers at the Conference and since 1919 a TUC nominee has been in the Governing Body which is responsible for supervising the work of the organisation. The ILO publishes a large number of reports on employment, labour, and social security issues and provides technical assistance in the labour field to developing countries.

It also organises sectoral meetings attended by trade union, employer and government representatives to discuss matters specific to certain industries.

The ITUC is the world trade union body to which the TUC is affiliated. It was founded in 2006 and has 308 affiliated organisations in 153 countries and territories on all five continents, with a membership of 175 million.

The ITUC works to promote the interests of working people, and to reduce the gap between rich and poor by helping working people to organise and to fight oppression everywhere. It defends human and trade union rights and works for international understanding and peace. It opposes discrimination, child and forced labour and supports freedom of association and free collective bargaining.

The ITUC will hold its World Congress in Berlin in May 2014.

TUAC was established in 1948 to maintain contact, and conduct negotiations, with the Organisation for European Economic Co-operation, which in 1960 was replaced by the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development, whose members included the European members of OEEC, Canada and the USA, and subsequently Japan. Since 1994 the governments of Mexico, the Czech Republic, Slovakia, Hungary, Poland and Korea have become members.

The role of TUAC is to present trade union views to the governments in the OECD. The submissions of TUAC, which include the trade union statement presented annually since 1977 to the chair of the economic summit, deal principally with a range of economic, industrial and social policy issues affecting working people.
